After the coffee break, Spanish students/teachers will guide the European visitors on a school tour in which teachers will have the possibility to exchange methodological practices and will be able to observe real lessons taken by our students at school . A paella will be served on the school patio for all to try a typical Spanish dish. The afternoon activity was a treasure hunt around the city of Jerez to get familiar with it and to know about its monuments and history.

On Tuesday morning, European students and teachers will be classified into groups in order to receive lessons from trained Spanish students and teachers. The topics of the workshops are aimed to learn how to use Google Drive in a practical way, that is, they will create a collaborative document about the Moorish Alcázar of Jerez in Google Drive, which they will visit in the afternoon. After it, there will be a reception at the Town Hall. The education municipal delegate will receive us and will speak about how important is for the city of Jerez to support European projects. Afterwards, we will visit the Moorish Alcazar and the Winery of González Byass, two important tourist attractions in order to understand better the moorish influence in our culture and the importance of winery exportation abroad.

Good

It would be useful to introduce an activity related to the Google Classroom for me you could go to bit further into this, using more google drives and using some other google programs, but for the rest was okay

I don't think we have anything to improve, everything has been planned down to the last detail, a very well-structured programme

I personally would not do any improvement because it was all functional

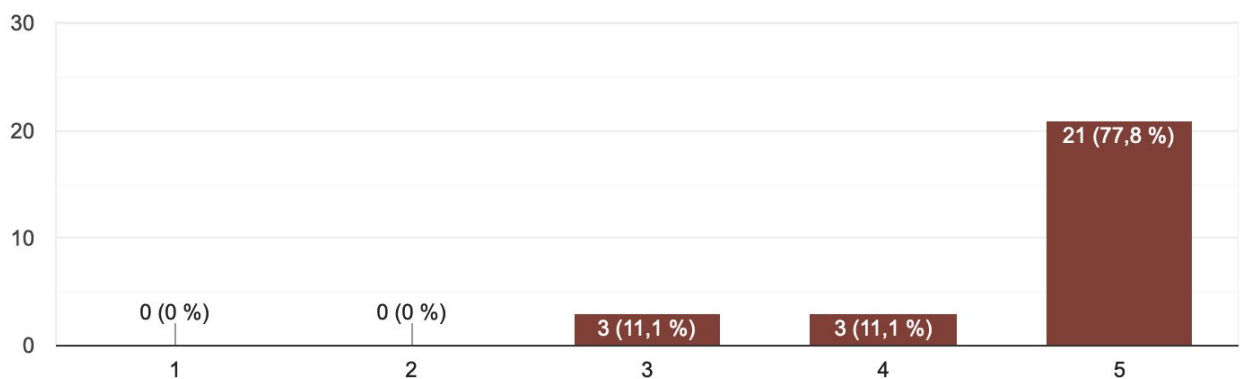

Più ore in laboratorio

Student groups should make an innovative presentation of their school and their city.
